

BSI/NVVI Annual Congress 2016
6-9 December 2016-12-13 ACC Liverpool, UK

13th December 2016
Nijmegen, The Netherlands

Meeting Summary

As a PhD candidate, it was a pleasure to participate in such important and relevant event organised together by the British and Dutch Society for Immunology. A week “submerged” in an excited scientific programme that came up to my expectations. See young researchers like me, but also veteran scientists, exchanging information, it was for me, the high point in this congress. See all this people working for a better understanding of the complex mechanisms of the immune system, which dramatically influence cancer, infection and inflammatory diseases, is a sign of hope for the humankind and those who suffer; and guess what, I am part of this. Fantastic!

Paulo Cesar Martins Urbano, MSc, PhD candidate
RadboudUMC, Department Laboratory Medical Immunology (LMI)